

Student-Led Research Grant (Up to $1500)

This fund is intended to defray research and scholarly activity project costs of student-led scholarship that is supervised by a UFV faculty member up to $1500. The funding can be applied to projects from any discipline, and the project can be part of a directed studies or honours course. The funding is intended to cover student-led research/scholarship for individual student courses, such as Directed Studies or Honours project, that have a research/scholarship intensive focus.

Details

Award Amount	Up to $1500
Eligibility	UFV Undergraduate and Graduate Students
Application Process	Apply through ROMEO , UFV's online research tool
Criteria	This award is for any undergraduate or graduate student enrolled at UFV. The research must be supervised by a UFV faculty member. Funded projects must result in outcomes that can be shared publicly.
Deadline	Ongoing, while funds are available

Eligible Expenses

Eligible costs and activities are defined broadly and can include dissemination activities that focus on public awareness, such as the painting of a mural or more conventional costs such as software licenses. Funding cannot be used to compensate the student for their time, but it can be used for justifiable personal expenses such as travel and mileage expenses. All expenses must be pre-approved.

Funding Focus

Projects that focus on issues of equity, diversity, inclusion, decolonization, Indigenization, and anti-racism are encouraged. However, funding for student led research is not limited to these focus areas and other topics are welcome.
